Date: Friday, March 07, 2014 7:28:42 PM

Dear Chairman Weisenmiller and Commissioners:

As a California consumer who often purchases and uses home appliances and consumer electronics, I request the CEC adopt robust appliance efficiency enforcement regulations.

Those regulations will be important to make sure California meets its greenhouse gas emissions reduction targets. But they will also be important to make sure that consumers like me are not burdened with inefficient products that cost more to operate and use more energy than necessary.

Also, any enforcement regulation should include internet sales of appliances and consumer electronics. The regulations should also ensure accountability of those individuals and entities that are manufacturing and selling appliances and consumer electronics.
Thank you for your efforts to develop strong enforcement regulations.

Sincerely,
James Stewart
