Defenders of Wildlife don't live near SJC BESS

Their California office is more than 400 miles away and most of their directors aren't even in California. One more allegedly "Interested" party seeking to promote their agenda at the expense of the people that will actually live next to this very dangerous environmental hazard. Pretty much every party voicing support either has a financial interest or a political agenda to push, but they don't live near the proposed BESS site. The overwhelming majority of people who live in the area have expressed opposition because we will be the ones that will experience the devastating effect of fire or another type of accident when it inevitably occurs.
