battery storage facility by compass energy

I am unable to attend the meeting today in San Juan Capistrano regarding the Compass Energy Battery Storage Facility, but felt it necessary to comment. Given possible hazards with a fire at a battery storage facility such as this, why place it next to an interstate freeway, a rail line and a toll road? The local streets nearest the site tend to get easily congested which would make it difficult for emergency support personnel. Besides the danger to the transportation corridors, there is the chance of fire racing up the hills to homes. With a hospital, malls, a junior college and various schools close by, not just local residents would be exposed to toxics and the threat of fire.
