1. How will this kind of project be insured when homeowners whose homes sit on canyons in many areas of Orange Count either can't afford extremely expensive homeowner's fire insurance or are considered uninsurable by the insurance industrial complex?
2. If this project is built and a disaster occurs such as a fire, catastrophic earthquake, terrorism or human stupidity and this battery storage project causes damage of some kind to homes, businesses, schools and most importantly, human life and the environment, will the owners of this battery storage project and/or their insurance carrier actually step up and responsibly pay for said damages timely without years of court proceedings? Best not to chance this scenario, therefore,
3. Put this project on hold until the leaders of the State of California, Orange County and city leaders of San Juan Capistrano and surrounding cities take REAL action to mitigate ALL of the fire ready vegetation that grows rampant throughout Orange County. Look around Orange County and see acre after acre of unmanaged dry, fire prone vegetation that is ever-present.

Respectfully,
Arlene Johnson
