Compass Energy Project in San Juan Capistrano (24-OPT-02)

This is 13 plus acre project of over 1,100 truck container size lithium batteries situated in a fire danger zone that has massive impact to three cities that boader each other (LN, SJC and MV) yet it was never put on any voter information booklet for a public vote. A great number of impacted residents still don't know about it. Lesser public measures have been put up for vote. Why not this one? Why has initial SJC city council rejection been ignored? Have lessons not been learned from the disasters in San Diego and Moss Landing?
