A data center in the middle of the Mojave desert is terrible

Hello. I would like to comment on the application to establish a data center in Inyokern Ca. We are already under water restrictions because our water is being used faster than sustainable. Please explain how a facility using 12-18 million gallons a year makes sense in a desert community? Our resources need to be reserved for our biggest employer at the US Naval base at China lake. This installation provides 5000 jobs and does critical testing and aircraft testing and engineering for our military. All a data center does is steal our power and water to be used in AI to take more jobs from our young people. Please deny this bad idea from becoming reality. Thanks
