I don't support the proposed AI Data center in Inyokern

I oppose the proposed AI data center in Inyokern because it places an unsustainable burden on our fragile desert ecosystem and rural community. The Indian Wells Valley groundwater basin is already critically overdrafted, and introducing a massive industrial facility risks straining our only water supply and driving up costs for local residents. Furthermore, the reliance on 40 diesel-fired backup generators raises serious concerns about noise and air pollution, while the physical footprint of the 50 acre development threatens protected wildlife like the desert tortoise. We should not compromise our long-term public health, water security, and rural quality of life for short-term economic promises that leave our community to deal with the environmental fallout.
