you are out of line

You people have now decided to decide what tires I can purchase on my vehicle. This act has done several things: taken away choice which I thought was part of the freedom of living in America taken away the choice small businesses have on what they can sell in California taken away the freedom to purchase what I want taken away the right to purchase what I want

And, you have become closer and closer to a socialist/communist entity and apparently that is your goal because this tire business is way out of line.

California has the most regulations of any state in America, and now you have just added another. It is insanity at its best; and controlling the people of California is becoming the thing that entities like yours seem to thrive on. You should be ashamed of yourselves and rescind this tire thing. California will not stand for this, America will not stand for it either.

And when I need new tires, I will ask the state and you to pay for them because I won't be able to afford your insanity.
