Subject: RE: Continued Committee Conference June 6, 2017

The Committee finished its deliberations for the day when it returned from closed session at approximately 2:00 pm this afternoon. It will continue its deliberations during another closed session tomorrow. The Committee said it intends to issue its decisions regarding the ISO's offer and the Applicant's motion to exclude evidence in writing, sometime after tomorrow's Committee Conference. Committees do sometimes announce decisions orally at the conclusion of a closed session but not generally regarding complex topics such as these.

Paul –

Did I misunderstand (not uncommon)? Wasn't the 10:00am conference meant to announce the results of the committee deliberations? Or are we supposed to call in and wait until the results of the closed conference session starting at 10 were made available?

Thanks,

Tom
