Dear California Energy Commission,

We are pleased to present you with this petition affirming this statement:

"We the undersigned are academics and activists, organizers and workers, who move in solidarity with the people of Oxnard, CA, to fight the toxic fossil-fuel burning Puente power plant proposed to be sited in their city. We call upon the California Energy Commission to reject this proposal for another unnecessary, toxic power plant, which will only generate more profits and wealth for NRG, a Fortune 200 company, at the expense of the health of Oxnard residents and the already fragile planet. "

Attached is a list of individuals who have added their names to this petition, as well as additional comments written by the petition signers themselves.

This is only a partial list of concerned people who have joined the outcry and will continue to mobilize against this unnecessary power plant. In light of the feasible alternatives identified by the CAISO study and multiple renewable energy experts in the region, and in the context of the long history of environmental hazards already heaped upon the community of Oxnard for generations, we demand that this toxic racism must be stopped now.

In addition, we urge the Committee and Commission members to view the following two videos to consider in their deliberations. They offer the testimony of Oxnard community members and CAUSE youth leaders and organizers about the impacts of this history, and why they deserve a better future.

<https://vimeo.com/204629609>

<https://www.facebook.com/FusionProjectEarth/videos/1870535536545288/>

We hope that you will agree, and take the bold, responsible step to reject the P3 project. With the power of the people of our communities, we call upon you to use the power that rests squarely in your hands to do the right thing.

Sincerely,

FFIERCE: Fighting for Informed Environmentally Responsible Clean Energy

If the power generated is to be shared over the surrounding counties then why isn't the resulting burden of pollution shared by the surrounding counties? The only reasonable explanation is that those who are forced to suffer from greater amounts of pollution are seen to have little value to those who enforce the placement of the power plants. And the only thing that separates them from us is class and race. For the city to attack our communities using these means then they are spitting in the face of every civil right's leader who gave their lives so that we could live.

The more people invest in solar on their own homes, especially in California, and now with Tesla coming out and marketing an actual battery that stores unused solar power gathered throughout the day, these power plants are less and less necessary... Make solar for homes affordable and these (even though less toxic than some of the current power plants) are totally unnecessary.. In fact I would love to see more builders that create communities with solar power to show how well and clean a system can be...Even in current neighborhoods with some families using solar and some not... I am sure if our people using clean technology could set up systems to provide electricity for whole neighborhoods, and not everyone would actually need solar cells on their homes...These need to be tried, of course since most of our electricity is generated from for profit companies and corporations...I'm sure there isn't any hurry in taking their profits out of the picture...
