Background

On October 7, 2015, Governor Edmund G. Brown Jr. signed SB 350 into law. The bill establishes a new statewide goal to reduce greenhouse gas emissions 40 percent below 1990 levels by 2030. Specifically, SB 350 requires that the Energy Commission adopt targets by November 2017 that achieve a statewide cumulative doubling of energy efficiency savings in gas and electric final end-uses by 2030. The energy efficiency targets required by SB 350 will be adopted as part of the 2017 IEPR. The Energy Commission assesses major energy trends and issues facing the state's electricity, natural gas, and transportation fuel sectors and provides policy recommendations to conserve resources; protect the environment; ensure reliable, secure, and diverse energy supplies; enhance the state's economy; and protect public health and safety (Public Resources Code § 25301[a]). The Energy Commission prepares updates to these assessments and associated policy recommendations in alternate years (Public Resources Code §25302[d]).

SB 350 stipulates that the Energy Commission must establish the energy efficiency savings doubling targets in a public process that involves the CPUC and the utilities. On July 11, 2016, the Energy Commission held an initial workshop, involving the CPUC, utilities, and other stakeholders on the data and analytical needs related to doubling energy efficiency savings within the context of the IEPR demand forecast. On January 23, 2017, the Energy Commission held a workshop discussing with stakeholders a paper that laid out the policy timing framework staff intend to follow to establish the energy efficiency savings targets called for by SB 350. In that paper and workshop, staff proposed dividing the energy efficiency savings target-setting work called for by SB 350 into two separate analyses—one by the Energy Assessments Division on targets for ratepayer-funded energy efficiency savings, and one by the Efficiency Division on targets for other energy efficiency savings. The intent of this workshop is to discuss with stakeholders the methodology staff is using to establish the energy efficiency targets. The results of these analyses will be posted for public review subsequent to the workshop. Following a comment period, the analyses will be merged into a draft and then final Energy Commission report to be considered by the Energy Commission for adoption as the SB 350 Energy Efficiency Savings Targets.

Agenda

A detailed schedule and documents for the workshop will be posted prior to the workshop at http://www.energy.ca.gov/2017_energypolicy. This workshop will feature a presentation and discussion, and will solicit stakeholder feedback on proposed methodologies to establish specific targets for individual entities. The discussion will focus on the proposed methodologies for establishing the 2030 energy efficiency savings targets called for by SB 350, including, but not limited to, the following topics:

- Updates on timing and process in establishing the energy efficiency savings targets
- Investor Owned Utility energy efficiency savings
- Publicly Owned Utility energy efficiency savings
- Non-utility energy efficiency savings
 - Future Codes and Standards
 - Financing
 - Other Programs
- Discussion of additional savings topics to be implemented in the future
