Subject: possible television manufacturer stakeholder meeting

Hi Kelly and Doug,

As was discussed briefly in the meeting that we held on Wednesday this week with television retailers, CEC staff is open to a similar informal webex type meeting with television manufacturers to drill down and get specific answers to questions about television energy use and concerns about specific standards levels, etc. We are thinking of scheduling such a meeting on Monday, March 16, and were wondering if that worked for CEA members (the meeting would be again in webex format, so travel is not required, but in-person would be welcome). Alternatively, we would prefer to schedule the meeting sometime during the latter half of the previous week in March, but times and rooms are becoming constrained for that timeframe, depending upon how many CEA would expect to attend in person (we have more room choices if attendance in person is smaller).

What are your thoughts on holding a meeting on March 16 or during the latter half of the previous week?

Thanks,

Tim
