Time to phase out gas for buildings

We cannot meet California's Global Warming Solutions Act goals without beginning to phase out gas as a source of energy into our homes and buildings. It is unfathomable that we aren't calling for all electric homes in the new building codes (I understand this isn't the easiest of undertakings); we should at the very least require that all appliances and systems for new construction are wired for electric alternatives. Dual fuel is a concept way past its expiration date; don't build 21st century buildings with 20th century technology.

Thank you.
