AAER-18-04 1601 appears to have a exception for appliances used in recreational vehicles

Perhaps some portable air conditioners are designed and sold exclusively for use in recreational vehicles?

Title 20, Section 1601 appears to have a exception for appliances that are designed and sold exclusively for use in recreational vehicles.

Would portable air conditioners be exempt from Title 20 Article 4. Appliance Efficiency Regulations by labeling them for use in recreational vehicles or placing them in a section of a store where recreational vehicle equipment is displayed?

Please provide a answer to my question.
