Help Stop New AES Redondo Power Plant

Dear Ms Kelly,

I live in South Torrance on the border of Redondo Beach and walk frequently on the Strand from Avenue I to the Redondo Pier.

I often wonder how a city and state could allow a power plant to be built in a densely populated area, right on a natural resource as precious and beautiful as the Pacific Ocean.

This past Sunday, I walked to the pier with my 83 year old mother, visiting from Hilton Head Island, and we were followed by a school of dolphins not 50 yards off shore in the direction of the power plant.

My mother blithely took note: "It's a blight on the landscape."

We need to reclaim our coast. AES has no business on the Redondo coast.

Shame on all of us—the state included— for allowing this to happen.

Yours truly,

Cheryl Proval
