Opposition to RBEP

Dear Patricia,

As a resident of Redondo Beach, California, I am writing to let you know that I oppose the proposed Redondo Beach Energy Project (RBEP, docket number 12-AFC-03). RBEP, which relies on natural-gas-fired generators, will not move us closer to supplying more of our energy from renewable sources. Additionally, an independent assessment ("Analysis of Local Capacity Requirements in the Western Los Angeles Basin Sub-Area", June 2013) concluded that the new RBEP development is not necessary to meet projected demand in the Western Los Angeles Basin, and that more efficient and environmentally-responsible options exist for increasing grid reliability.

I hope the CEC considers the findings of the report, as well as a broader energy strategy for the region, and denies the AES application to build a new plant in Redondo Beach.

Sincerely,

Kelley Ristau
