Agenda

This workshop will solicit public comments on the Clean Transportation Program Benefits Report findings, Benefits Report methodology, funding highlights, and success stories. Commission staff will present an overview of the Benefits Report analysis, and will moderate panels comprised of past Clean Transportation Program funding recipients, followed by an opportunity for public comments.

A detailed meeting schedule will be posted prior to the workshop at http://www.energy.ca.gov/2019_energypolicy/.

Background

In 2007, the Legislature established the Clean Transportation Program within the Energy Commission. With about $100 million per year from vehicle registration fees, the Clean Transportation Program provides funding to “develop and deploy innovative technologies that transform California’s fuel and vehicle types to help attain the state’s climate change policies.” The statutes also require the Energy Commission to include an evaluation (the Benefits Report) of the program’s efforts as part of each biennial IEPR.

As of March 2019, the Energy Commission has provided nearly $830 million in funding through the Clean Transportation Program to projects that reduce greenhouse gas emissions, improve air quality, and reduce petroleum dependence. Major funding areas have included:

- Charging infrastructure for plug-in electric vehicles
- Hydrogen refueling stations for fuel cell electric vehicles
- Production of low-carbon fuels including renewable diesel, biomethane / renewable natural gas, biodiesel, ethanol, and renewable hydrogen
- Demonstration or deployment of advanced technologies into medium- and heavy-duty vehicles
- In-state manufacturing and workforce training for zero emission vehicles and related infrastructure
