Not Where My Kids Play

I live close to this power plant in neighboring Hermosa Beach. I don't understand why we need to have this in the South Bay.

It just doesn't make sense to have a power plant in a highly populated area of Southern California with so many schools nearby. My son suffers from a number of health issues, such as chronic asthma, and I am worried about the environmental impact. Furthermore, when I have friends visiting from out of town they can't understand why we would put such an eye sore close to where people are trying to enjoy the beach.

I am firmly against this project.
