Do Not Allow Another Power Plant

The current AES power plant runs at only 5% capacity and is surrounded by communities of over 10,000 residents per square mile. A new facility would run at a much higher capacity, dramatically increasing air pollution levels and causing significant health problems in surrounding communities.

Power production is not necessary at this site as determined by reports from the CEC, CAISO, and Administrative Law Judge, Peter Allen. A worthier goal would be increased deployment of rooftop solar and other renewable resources (wind, etc...) that would increase grid stability during times of peak load, reduce greenhouse gas emissions, and eliminate a massive source of air pollution.
