Agenda

This lead commissioner workshop will include presentations on the update to the California Building Energy Code Compliance (CBECC) weather files, life cycle costing, the update to the 2022 Time Dependent Valuation (TDV) of energy, alternative metrics considered, and the results of research into potential alternative metrics. The workshop will present a final proposed metric(s) for the 2022 Energy Code and conclude with a comment/question and answer period.

Background

The CEC updates the Energy Code (Building Energy Efficiency Standards) on an approximately three-year cycle. The 2022 Energy Code will continue to improve upon the 2019 Energy Code for new construction of, and additions and alterations to, residential and nonresidential buildings. The 2022 Energy Code will go into effect on January 1, 2023 (for building permit applications submitted on or after that date).

The CEC's enabling statute requires that measures we adopt be "cost effective, when taken in their entirety, and when amortized over the economic life of the structure when compared with historic practice.” Beginning with the 2005 Energy Code update, the CEC has used TDV energy to set baselines for compliance with the Energy Code and to determine the cost effectiveness of proposed measures. Over several cycles, multiple iterations and improvements to the calculation of the TDV have resulted in valuation curves that strongly resemble a statewide time of use or marginal cost curve for electricity and natural gas. For the 2022 Energy Code update, the CEC is considering options to modify compliance baselines and metrics to increase the Energy Code’s support for the state’s carbon-reduction goals.

Oral comments: Staff will accept oral comments during the workshop. Comments may be limited to five minutes per speaker and one speaker per organization. Any comments may become part of the public record for this proceeding.
