RE: Docket 19-BSTD-08: California Needs Solar Roofs

null

California Energy Commission,

Every new roof without solar is a major missed opportunity to lock in pollution-free solar energy. I strongly urge you not to retreat from this important program, and require solar installations on every new rooftop in California.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Kathleen Loehrke

California Energy Commission,

Every new roof without solar is a major missed opportunity to lock in pollution-free solar energy. I strongly urge you not to retreat from this important program, and require solar installations on every new rooftop in California. The added cost of a solar installation would be nominal compared to the price of the home (and be offset by savings on electrical bills)

A compromise could be that only new homes above a certain square footage are required to have solar installation.

Olivier Albin

While I feel every home can benefit from solar in a disaster prone state, and for clean energy production, it is probably most cost effective to put the panels wherever is sunniest - which might be elsewhere.

Homes should however be "renewable ready" - enabling later addition of solar/wind power at minimal cost.

California Energy Commission,

Every new roof without solar is a major missed opportunity to lock in pollution-free solar energy. I strongly urge you not to retreat from this important program, and require solar installations on every new rooftop in California.

Sincerely, Leslie Tamminen

Every new roof without solar is a major missed opportunity to lock in pollution-free solar energy. I strongly urge you not to retreat from this important program, and require solar installations on every new rooftop in California. Distributed generation saves our deserts from destruction via solar developments. Just because most people don't notice that destruction doesn't mean it's ok! Please continue to insist the every new roof is required to be a source of electrical power.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
Pat Wolff
