This is in protest of reversing the name change of CalEnergy to CHEERS.

I have licensing at both CalEnergy and CalCert. The name change to CalEnergy has not been confusing to the builders or homeowners that I service. It is a registry to input information governed by the California Energy Commission. I see nothing wrong with leaving it CalEnergy and I have never had anyone confuse the two. If a competitor complains it is because they are losing business. I do not know of any builders or homeowners ever mentioning any confusion.

Thank You

Rick Lee
