California must lead with all-electric buildings now

Dear commissioners,

California has an opportunity to lead the nation on ensuring that all new construction is all-electric. We know that climate impacts - notably the record breaking fires this year - are becoming increasingly devastating and will continue to be more frequent and damaging. Most gas for home use is fracked, with negative health impacts at fracking sites, refineries and in the home in addition to the climate impacts. I urge you to require all new construction is electric in California.

Thank you!
