Hearth and Home Technologies Position Statement on Natural Gas Ban

Hearth and Home Technologies (part of HNI Corporation and its family of brands) is committed to prioritizing renewable energy and reducing carbon emissions and waste in a meaningful way by driving sustainability in our processes and products. As a supplier to small and large dealer businesses, we know how vital natural and renewable gas is to maintaining consumer choice, contributing to a strong economy, and protecting the environment now and into the future. If natural gas is not a clean energy solution available in homes and all electric is required, emission reduction goals will not be met. This will lead to inefficiencies with generation, distribution, and lack of storage. Supporting mixed-fuel solutions for households and businesses will help maximize carbon emission reduction.
