Need to Encourage NOT Discourage Leadership

It is critical to extend the over $58 million of the CalEHP incentives to local jurisdictions that want to endeavor passing all-electric reach codes for new construction.

If we are to meet our GHG reduction targets and climate obligations at the local level, every incentive available counts especially since the State decided to not go all-electric for new construction during the 2022 Title 24 code cycle.

Not extending this would undermine many jurisdictions' ability to convince community stakeholders and developers to adopt all-electric reach codes for new construction.
