Dear Austin Grove:

ConSol Home Energy Efficiency Rating Services, Inc. (CHEERS) submitted the final revisions of CHEERS' application to use the Energyguy BOSS external digital data source (EDDS) service to the California Energy Commission (CEC) on December 10, 2021.

CEC staff completed its review of the application and determined that it complies with the applicable requirements of the 2019 Energy Code. A staff report about the review and evaluation of the application was published and a notice informing interested parties that the report was available on the CEC website was transmitted on April 25, 2022.

Based on staff's review and validation of CHEERS' application to use the Energyguy BOSS EDDS, I find that the application meets the applicable requirements of the 2019 Energy Code. I also find that the application meets the conditions for streamlined approval as specified in Reference Joint Appendix JA7.8.3.2. Therefore, I approve CHEERS' application to use the Energyguy BOSS EDDS service.

This approval allows CHEERS to make the Energyguy BOSS EDDS service available for use as an option for keyed-in data entry for CHEERS' data registry, along with the addendum to the user manual. CHEERS shall notify authorized users of the data registry when the EDDS service has been made available as specified in JA7.8.3.2(d).
