Hers Inspections

As a Building Official and code enforcing agency I believe the Hers Inspections requirements have develop into a time and money wasting machine for both the California Certified design professionals and the home owners, specially the homeowners. it is lubricous to require an inspection on an existing garage/structure in order to approve or register the CF!R forms. Having a third party inspector verify an existing condition, which is listed on city and county records as permitted. it is a total disrespect for the industry the certified design professionals and the home owner.

Thank you,
