I wish to draw your attention towards a matter of significant concern. The California Energy Commission is considering the possibility of revoking the HERS Program for Field Verification and Diagnostic Testing without any proper plans for future regulations in place. This course of action would be highly irresponsible and a violation of the rules. It is imperative that before taking such drastic steps, the commission must ensure that alternative arrangements are made for the future.

Moreover, the proposed rules under 23-HERS-01 could have serious consequences for businesses and individuals alike, resulting in potential loss of jobs and livelihoods. As such, it is essential that the commission thoroughly considers the implications of their decision and carefully evaluates the impact on the people involved.

I strongly urge the California Energy Commission to act with caution and to prioritize the preservation of the HERS Program for Field Verification and Diagnostic Testing by implementing adequate measures for the future. Thank you for your attention.
