Strong yes on wind power the approval of renewable energy projects like Fountain Wind often depends on various factors such as environmental impact assessments, community engagement, regulatory approvals, and economic feasibility. These projects can offer benefits like reducing greenhouse gas emissions and promoting energy independence, but they also need to be evaluated carefully to minimize potential negative impacts on wildlife, habitats, and local communities. Would say it's a strong positive and would help out local union jobs put a lot of people in. That area to work
