Continue EV charging funding

I am writing to express my support for and encourage your continued funding for California's electric vehicle (EV) charging network. Although sales of EVs have slowed, a recent study shows that consumer interest is likely to strengthen in the next few years. One concern that can dampen interest in EVs is the availability of charging locations, therefore, it is imperative that we continue to build out this resource. This build-out is particularly important for multi-family housing residents, renters, and those located in rural areas.
