No On Battery Storage in Vacaville

I find it irresponsible that the State of California is able to bypass the will of the community in regards to battery storage facilities within or very near Vacaville. We have spoken and the leaders of Vacaville have taken that into account and chosen to not move forward on this issue and to put a moratorium into place for the time being.

Research has shown these facilities are not safe, often catch on fire and pollute the surrounding areas with toxic chemicals. Also, the fact that the energy will be used to power San Francisco and San Jose and NOT Vacaville is another underhanded move. Why should the residents of Vacaville take on all the risks of this project with zero added value for us. I would prefer to see the communities who will benefit from this project (SF and SJ) take on the responsibility to support this within their own communities!

Thank you for your time.
