No to the Corby BESS Project

Solano County residents have stood against battery storage systems at least twice in less than 10 years, with the most recent occurring last year. Two major concerns is that Corby is using the state to supersede the voices of the residents that live, work, and play in this community. Additionally, they want to use prime ag land for the location of this system. Solano County agricultural land is already under attack by developers and state legislation, at what point will our state leaders stand up for our agricultural community? Please reject Corby's proposal and require them to start with the local community and elected officials.
