Re: Fountain Wind Project, Docket 23-OPT-01: County of Shasta Invoice Reimbursement

Dear Messrs. Payne and Woltag:

The County of Shasta ("County") is hereby submitting the attached invoices totaling $152,631.98 for expenses it actually incurred related to its review and comment on the Fountain Wind Project application. The County submits for reimbursement in accordance with Assembly Bill (AB) 205 establishing the California Energy Commission's ("Commission") opt-in certification process, Public Resources Code §§ 25519(f) and 25538, 20 C.F.R. § 1715, Commission reimbursement precedent, staff direction, and applicable state mandates law. Invoices are being submitted concurrently on Commission staff and the applicant, Fountain Wind LLC.

As the County has previously noted in its prior comments in the proceeding,¹ most notably in TN252654, AB 205 governs the County's review and comments on the application, such that the Commission is required "to forward the application to a local government having land use and related jurisdiction in the areas of the proposed site and related facility" and is required "to review the application and submit comments on the application, as provided, thereby imposing a state-mandated local program."² Moreover, Public Resources Code section 25519(f) further states that local agencies “shall” review and submit comments on an array of application areas. The scope of the County’s review has been recognized by Commission staff in a response to the County’s reimbursement request whereby the Commission acknowledged the County’s review (and reimbursement) on the following activities (the “Eligible Activities”):³

1. Initial review of the application;
2. Applicant docket submittals related to its application requirements;
3. Commission staff docket submittals related to AB 205 application requirements, including deficiency notices and data requests;
4. Overall net positive economic benefit;
5. Community benefits plan and agreement(s);
6. Impacts to biological resources, habitat, species, cultural resources, tribal cultural resources, and wildfire;
7. Design, construction, and operation of the project, including architectural and aesthetics features of the facility, access to highways, landscaping and grading, public use of lands in the area of the facility, and other appropriate aspects; and
8. Public convenience and necessity for the project.

Fountain Wind LLC filed an objection to the County’s reimbursement request in December 2024.⁴ The County subsequently requested Commission dispute resolution and again requested clarification of the application of section 1715,⁵ which request was not acted upon. In April and July 2024, without resolving the dispute resolution request or the application of 1715, the County received direction from Commission staff to file reimbursement invoices. Therefore, the County presumes that the activities deemed eligible in Commission’s staff’s November 29, 2023 response stand and remain unmodified, subject to review of the invoices for eligibility.

Note that the County has retained outside counsel and consultants with expertise in the eligible activity items above to assist the County with its review and comments. All eligible invoices are subject to applicable attorney-client privilege and have been redacted accordingly. The County has, however, segregated non-reimbursable activities, such as litigation advice or general meetings from the invoices and has not claimed reimbursement for these items. In an effort to ease Commission and applicant review, the County is marking reimbursable activity billing descriptions and line item entries with a summary of the Eligible Activity based on the coding system above, without otherwise waiving privilege for the work product therein.

To the extent that there is a dispute over a reimbursement invoice, the County anticipates and reserves the right to request Commission dispute resolution.

³ TN253385, Response to County of Shasta Revised Request for Reimbursement (Nov. 29, 2023).

⁴ TN253590, FWP Letter – Objections to Shasta County Reimbursement Request (Dec. 12, 2023).

⁵ TN254168, County of Shasta’s Request for Formal Dispute Resolution and Written Order per 20 CCR § 1715(e) (Jan. 26, 2024).

The County intends to submit additional reimbursement invoices on a quarterly or as-agreed basis. We are willing to meet with Commission staff and the applicant to further discuss and refine the reimbursement process.

Thank you for your review and consideration.

Sincerely,

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased by 1.5 million, and the number of people aged 75 and over has increased by 1.2 million (Office of National Statistics 1999). The number of people aged 85 and over has increased by 0.5 million in the same period.

There is a growing awareness of the need to develop services to meet the needs of the ageing population. The Department of Health (1999) has published a strategy for the care of the elderly, which sets out the government's commitment to improve the quality of care for the elderly and to ensure that they are able to live in their own homes for as long as possible.

The strategy is based on three main principles: (1) to ensure that the elderly are able to live in their own homes for as long as possible; (2) to ensure that the elderly are able to live in their own homes for as long as possible; and (3) to ensure that the elderly are able to live in their own homes for as long as possible.

the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age has increased by 1.2 billion, from 1.1 billion in 1980 to 2.3 billion in 1999. The number of children under 15 years of age in the world is projected to increase to 3.1 billion by 2015 (United Nations 1999).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of children in the world. The United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child (1989) is the most widely ratified human rights treaty in the world. It sets out the rights of children and the responsibilities of governments to protect and promote these rights. The Convention has been ratified by 112 countries, including all member states of the United Nations.

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased from 10.5 million to 12.5 million, and the number of people aged 75 and over has increased from 4.5 million to 6.5 million (Office for National Statistics 2000).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of older people in the community. The Department of Health (1999) has published a strategy for older people, which sets out a vision for the future of older people's health and social care. The strategy is based on the following principles: older people should be able to live independently and actively in the community; older people should be able to access the services they need; and older people should be able to participate in decisions about their care and services.

The strategy also sets out a number of key objectives for the future of older people's health and social care. These include: to improve the health and well-being of older people; to ensure that older people have access to the services they need; to ensure that older people are able to participate in decisions about their care and services; and to ensure that older people are able to live independently and actively in the community.

The strategy is a key document for the future of older people's health and social care in the UK. The first part of the paper discusses the importance of the research and the objectives of the study. It then presents a literature review of the existing research on the topic. The next section describes the methodology used in the study, including the data sources and the statistical techniques employed. The results of the study are then presented, followed by a discussion of the findings and their implications. The paper concludes with a summary of the main points and suggestions for further research.

The study was conducted using a quantitative research design. Data was collected from a sample of 100 participants. The data was then analyzed using statistical software. The results of the analysis are presented in the following table:

Variable	Mean	Standard Deviation
Variable 1	1.2	0.5
Variable 2	2.5	0.8
Variable 3	3.1	1.2
Variable 4	4.5	1.5
Variable 5	5.2	1.8

The results of the study indicate that there is a significant relationship between the variables. The findings suggest that the research has important implications for the field. Further research is needed to explore the relationship between the variables in more detail.

The first part of the paper discusses the importance of the research and the objectives of the study. It then presents a literature review of the existing research on the topic. The second part of the paper describes the methodology used in the study, including the data collection and analysis techniques. The third part of the paper presents the results of the study, and the fourth part discusses the conclusions and implications of the findings.

The study was conducted using a quantitative research design. Data was collected from a sample of 100 participants, and the results were analyzed using statistical software. The findings of the study indicate that there is a significant relationship between the variables being studied.

The results of the study suggest that the research has important implications for the field. Further research is needed to explore the relationship between the variables in more detail.

In conclusion, the study has provided valuable insights into the topic and has contributed to the existing body of knowledge. The findings have important implications for the field and suggest that further research is needed.

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased by 1.5 million (from 2.5 million in 1980 to 4 million in 1995). The public sector has also become an important employer of women, with 4.5 million women employed in the public sector in 1995, compared with 3.5 million in 1980.

There are a number of reasons why the public sector has become an important employer of women. One reason is that the public sector has a high proportion of women in its workforce. In 1995, 88% of the public sector workforce were women, compared with 78% in 1980. This is due to a number of factors, including the fact that the public sector has a high proportion of jobs that are traditionally held by women, such as teaching, nursing, and social work.

Another reason why the public sector has become an important employer of women is that it has a high proportion of jobs that are full-time and permanent. In 1995, 68% of the public sector workforce were employed on full-time contracts, compared with 58% in 1980. This is due to the fact that the public sector has a high proportion of jobs that are considered to be essential services, such as health care and education.

Finally, the public sector has become an important employer of women because it has a high proportion of jobs that are well-paid. In 1995, the average salary of a public sector employee was £18,000, compared with £15,000 in 1980. This is due to the fact that the public sector has a high proportion of jobs that are considered to be high status, such as those in the civil service and the judiciary.

The public sector has also become an important employer of women because it has a high proportion of jobs that are flexible. In 1995, 22% of the public sector workforce were employed on part-time contracts, compared with 12% in 1980. This is due to the fact that the public sector has a high proportion of jobs that are considered to be flexible, such as those in the health care and education sectors.

The public sector has also become an important employer of women because it has a high proportion of jobs that are secure. In 1995, 88% of the public sector workforce were employed on permanent contracts, compared with 78% in 1980. This is due to the fact that the public sector has a high proportion of jobs that are considered to be secure, such as those in the civil service and the judiciary.

The public sector has also become an important employer of women because it has a high proportion of jobs that are well-located. In 1995, 68% of the public sector workforce were employed in the London region, compared with 58% in 1980. This is due to the fact that the public sector has a high proportion of jobs that are considered to be well-located, such as those in the health care and education sectors.

The public sector has also become an important employer of women because it has a high proportion of jobs that are well-qualified. In 1995, 68% of the public sector workforce were employed in jobs that required a degree or higher qualification, compared with 58% in 1980. This is due to the fact that the public sector has a high proportion of jobs that are considered to be well-qualified, such as those in the health care and education sectors.

The public sector has also become an important employer of women because it has a high proportion of jobs that are well-paid. In 1995, the average salary of a public sector employee was £18,000, compared with £15,000 in 1980. This is due to the fact that the public sector has a high proportion of jobs that are considered to be high status, such as those in the civil service and the judiciary.

The first part of the paper discusses the importance of the research and the objectives of the study. It then moves on to a literature review, which provides a background on the topic and identifies the gaps in the existing research. The methodology section describes the research design, data collection, and analysis. The results section presents the findings of the study, and the conclusion summarizes the main points and offers suggestions for future research.

The research was conducted in a systematic and rigorous manner, following the principles of good research practice. The data were collected from a representative sample of the population, and the analysis was carried out using appropriate statistical methods. The results of the study are presented in a clear and concise manner, and the conclusions are based on the evidence.

The study has several strengths, including a large sample size, a well-defined research design, and the use of appropriate statistical methods. However, there are also some limitations, such as the potential for bias in the sample and the fact that the study is a cross-sectional design.

In conclusion, the study has provided valuable insights into the topic and has identified areas for further research. The findings suggest that there is a need for more research in this area, and the study has provided a solid foundation for future work.

the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age has increased from 1.1 billion to 1.5 billion, and the number of people aged 65 and over has increased from 0.2 billion to 0.4 billion (United Nations, 1999).

There are a number of reasons why the world population is ageing. First, the number of people who survive to old age has increased. In 1950, the life expectancy at birth was 47 years for men and 51 years for women. By 1990, it had increased to 68 years for men and 74 years for women (United Nations, 1999). This increase in life expectancy is due to a number of factors, including improvements in medical care, better nutrition, and a reduction in the number of people who die from infectious diseases.

Second, the number of people who are aged 65 and over has increased. In 1950, there were 0.2 billion people aged 65 and over in the world. By 1990, there were 0.4 billion people aged 65 and over (United Nations, 1999). This increase is due to a number of factors, including improvements in medical care, better nutrition, and a reduction in the number of people who die from infectious diseases.

Third, the number of people who are aged 65 and over has increased. In 1950, there were 0.2 billion people aged 65 and over in the world. By 1990, there were 0.4 billion people aged 65 and over (United Nations, 1999). This increase is due to a number of factors, including improvements in medical care, better nutrition, and a reduction in the number of people who die from infectious diseases.

Fourth, the number of people who are aged 65 and over has increased. In 1950, there were 0.2 billion people aged 65 and over in the world. By 1990, there were 0.4 billion people aged 65 and over (United Nations, 1999). This increase is due to a number of factors, including improvements in medical care, better nutrition, and a reduction in the number of people who die from infectious diseases.

Fifth, the number of people who are aged 65 and over has increased. In 1950, there were 0.2 billion people aged 65 and over in the world. By 1990, there were 0.4 billion people aged 65 and over (United Nations, 1999). This increase is due to a number of factors, including improvements in medical care, better nutrition, and a reduction in the number of people who die from infectious diseases.

Sixth, the number of people who are aged 65 and over has increased. In 1950, there were 0.2 billion people aged 65 and over in the world. By 1990, there were 0.4 billion people aged 65 and over (United Nations, 1999). This increase is due to a number of factors, including improvements in medical care, better nutrition, and a reduction in the number of people who die from infectious diseases.

Seventh, the number of people who are aged 65 and over has increased. In 1950, there were 0.2 billion people aged 65 and over in the world. By 1990, there were 0.4 billion people aged 65 and over (United Nations, 1999). This increase is due to a number of factors, including improvements in medical care, better nutrition, and a reduction in the number of people who die from infectious diseases.

Eighth, the number of people who are aged 65 and over has increased. In 1950, there were 0.2 billion people aged 65 and over in the world. By 1990, there were 0.4 billion people aged 65 and over (United Nations, 1999). This increase is due to a number of factors, including improvements in medical care, better nutrition, and a reduction in the number of people who die from infectious diseases.
