Irresponsible

This project will endanger all of the residents in our area. I have a newborn that is at higher risk as any other child in the area due to their higher rates of respiration as well as developing organs making air pollution much more dangerous. In light of the effects of the fire in the lithium farm in Northern California it is both irresponsible and dangerous to let a project like this move on in an area in Southern California that struggles with fires that is close to so many residents, schools and public parks.
