The California Energy Commission (CEC) will host a workshop to provide an outlook for 2025 summer energy reliability for electricity, fossil gas and petroleum. The workshop will include an overview of anticipated summer weather and fire conditions, new clean energy resources expected to come online, hydroelectric resource conditions, and an update on anticipated system reliability conditions for the electricity, fossil gas, and petroleum markets.

The public can participate in the workshop consistent with the attendance instructions below. The CEC aims to begin promptly at the start time posted and the end time is an estimate based on the proposed agenda. The workshop may end sooner or later than the posted end time.

Agenda

Staff from the CEC, California Independent System Operator (California ISO), California Public Utilities Commission (CPUC), California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection (CALFIRE), Western Electricity Coordinating Council (WECC), California Department of Water Resources

(DWR), and the Governor's Office of Business Development will provide information on anticipated summer conditions for electricity, fossil gas and petroleum. This will include an overview of anticipated summer weather and fire conditions, and a summary of new clean energy resources coming online, including emerging trends that impact the ability for those resources to come online. Additionally, CEC, CPUC, California ISO, Bloomberg, and representatives from the largest publicly owned utilities will discuss 2025 summer reliability for electricity, fossil gas, and petroleum. The workshop will include a public comment period.

A detailed schedule will be posted prior to the workshop at Docket No. 21-ESR-01 at <https://efiling.energy.ca.gov/Lists/DocketLog.aspx?docketnumber=21-ESR-01>.

Background

California is experiencing a substantial shift in conditions affecting the energy sector. The state is transitioning to a cleaner energy future to reduce greenhouse gas emissions, while climate change is causing substantial variability in weather patterns and an increase in climate-driven natural disasters. From 2020 to 2024, California's electric grid faced unprecedented challenges due to extreme weather, and global economic pressures. Heat waves in 2020 and 2022 pushed electricity demand to record levels. Global supply chain disruptions compounded these challenges. This workshop will discuss the anticipated summer conditions, assess summer 2025 reliability, and provide an overview of reliability assessments for electricity, fossil gas, and petroleum.

Attendance Instructions

In-person participants may join the meeting at 715 P Street, First Floor Auditorium, Sacramento, California 95814. Remote participants may join via Zoom by internet or phone.
