Power Plant in Redondo Beach

I hope as the California Energy Commission considers the application from AES for a power plant in Redondo Beach, that the needs of ALL energy users in Southern California and not just the vocal minority in Redondo Beach. I understand that they oppose the power plant, however, their reasoning reeks of NIMBYism (Not In My BackYard). The power plant was there for decades before most of the current residents bought homes there. For the CEC to be swayed by only the residents of Redondo Beach falls short of looking at the energy needs of the cities beyond Redondo Beach. I hope the decision for the application is based solely on energy needs. Thanks for your time.
