HECA Project in the Buttonwillow area of California

How outrageous that HECA would back a project with the potential of polluting an already "dirty air" area of California! This makes no sense and the potential dangers are enormous to the surrounding areas.....sounds like just another corrupt deal made in the halls of our Federal and State governments. Could money and greed be the source behind this poor choice??? After all, California doesn't even have coal as a resource, and it has to be shipped in to the state to make the energy. Kudos to the Romanini Family for bringiing attention to this HECA jproject.
