Re: Simplification of the Title 24 process for Lighting Retrofits

I am writing to ask each and every person working on Title 24 as it pertains to Lighting Retrofits to stop for a second and consider the reason that Title 24 was created in the first place.

Title 24 was created as a means for California to save energy. Lighting Retrofits are done solely to save energy. Lighting Retrofit Contractors are in business because we can sell energy savings to building owners.

The 2013 version put such burdens on the lighting retrofit community that it threatened us with extinction. The 2016 version removes some of those burdens, and we feel optimistic that we can work under it.

The goal of the CEC under Title 24 should be to streamline and simplify the reporting necessary for Lighting Retrofits so that the thousands of people who go out each day and work toward the original goal of Title 24, Energy Savings, can continue to make a living and continue to Save Energy.

Please keep reporting simple. Please don't add acceptance testing where it isn't needed. Please help Lighting Retrofitters to Save Energy for California.

Sincerely,
