The Aliso Canyon Gas Storage fields

The Aliso Canyon Gas Storage field is very old, and sits on top of several serious earthquake faults...with an oil company next door. It would be very difficult to find an area that is more disaster prone...and predictable...than this one..that also sits right next door to thousands of home residents in Porter Ranch. There has already been a gas blowout disaster of huge proportions, which caused thousands of victims to need to flee from the area with their children, after having become very ill from the Methane and other contaminants. All of this, was just for starters, and the explosion--fire disaster potential will continue on, and PR residents and their children are still getting sick now that they have returned home. This gas supply is NOT needed. Please shut Aliso Canyon down...permanently!
