Opportunities for greater stakeholder engagement

Are there going to be greater opportunities for stakeholder engagement and input around both this project and other (GFO)-16-603 funded projects going forward? There are many community stakeholders around the state who are just now beginning to understand the importance and potential impact of EV charging, and our understanding was that the block grant was going to emphasize community engagement and innovation to better reach and serve these stakeholders. This is particularly true in low-income communities, communities which are already underserved by other EV charging programs, and have disproportionate need for the benefits that public programs like FresYES and (GFO)-16-603 can provide.
