CALeVIP rebate - No vender choice!

, I was just informed that in order to qualify for a rebate from California Energy Commission CALeVIP rebate program, the chargers have to be energy star certified. And the only chargers that currently qualifies, is chargepoint. I have read that the current administration wants to get rid of the Energy Star Certification, and has cut the EPA budget. My fear is this will affect the ability for charger manufacturers to get this designation, and eliminate competition, making ChargePoint the de facto single source.

Not much choice there, hum?

Please find a way to give consumers choices for their EV charging stations.
