The role of natural gas is vital to home owners in California. By requiring homes to be electrified adds and minimum of $10000 per home for home buyers. We must offer diverse energy choices including multiple fuels needed to meet the housing needs . And natural gas is the most viable energy choice for my clients. It is cost effective, feasible and does not require any modifications that would be very expensive to home owners. The California housing market is in crisis. The crisis is far too great to add another requirement or regulation cost to the death of the American Dream.
