Transitioning to electricity powered buildings

It is important for California to lead our country in transitioning away from carbon based energy. One way to help make this happen is to move away from methane and transition toward zero-emission homes and businesses. This will improve air quality and safety in our communities.

I urge the Commission to prioritize building decarbonization and identify more strategies that will encourage responsible electrification.

It's clear that electrifying over 13 million homes and buildings across the state will take all hands on deck. The IEPR should help prompt a successful transition toward zero-emission buildings.
