DoD Support of the Climate Emergency

The public believes that the U.S. military is responsive, flexible, and adaptable. At this point Climate Change is a more imminent threat than war. Political entities everywhere are declaring climate change an Emergency. Surely, the DoD can change its arrangements and operations to fully accommodate offshore wind installations. Let the wind industry have all the room it can possibly use (still only a relatively small area of ocean) and let the military strategically and tactically adjust. It would be graceful if the DoD offered their full support in every way. It's a national Emergency and we expect the DoD to, as always, do whatever it takes.
Thanks.
