Background

Assembly Bill 137 (Ting, Stats. 2021, Ch. 77) added Public Resources Code section 25403.2, which directs the CEC to implement and administer a statewide program to incentivize the construction of new multifamily and single family market-rate all-electric residential buildings, as well as residential energy storage systems, with funds appropriated in the Budget Act of 2021. CalEHP is named in statute as the Building Initiative for Low-Emissions Development Program Phase 2.

The CalEHP Draft Guiding Principles were initially presented at a March 17, 2022, workshop followed by a written comment period. Proposed updates to the document are contained in the Revised Draft Guiding Principles and shown in underline/strikethrough format with proposed language appearing in underline and proposed deletions appearing in strikethrough. In addition to non-substantive edits and formatting changes, the proposed updates include:

- Addition of Abstract, Executive Summary, and Program Administration sections.
- Deletion of Grid Resiliency language.
- Clarified portions of the Key Program Elements Mandated by Statute section.
- Addition of provision clarifying that, to the extent reasonable, the CEC intends for CalEHP incentives to be offered in localities with different approaches to local building codes.
