No, no, on new tax on oil companies that will raise the price of gasoline, again

Californians already pay the highest gas taxes in the nation, plus many hidden costs due to regulations and restrictions on the production of gasoline. It's time to tell Sacramento, "ENOUGH! No new taxes!" There is no global climate problem except what is being created by wealthy global elites who want to reduce the population of the world to have everything to themselves. Just look at what disasters have been created by population reduction measures like Covid-19, energy shortages are intended to kill people. One day you all at the energy commission will have to answer to a higher source "God" "Thou shalt not kill" and you are going to contribute to that cause because of higher costs associated with low income, middle income and homeless people of God. You can price everyone out of life's existence but in the end God is the AVENGER so think twice!
