I also think that the rebate for heat pumps should be retroactive to 2023. I had a technician from Nexgen tell me that the rebates would be retroactive but I had heard from a friend that what he said was not accurate. I searched the web and found a lengthy article from the LA Times stating that the rebate was not retroactive and that people would have to wait until sometime in 2024 to make a purchase. I could have lost thousands of dollars had I listened to the technician. I am sure that many of them are confused or trying to take advantage of the situation.

I just hope that my 22 year old a/c unit will last another summer in the desert.
