Insulation is Energy Efficiency

Hello, I am writing to encourage rebates and tax credits that provide for insulation installation and/or upgrades. Multiple methods of insulation should be considered including but not limited to windows and sliding glass doors, walls, attics, crawl spaces, and flooring. This program should be available to average homeowners in addition to low income homeowners. My wife and I just bought a very old house (84 years old) with poor insulation and are needing to retrofit the house room by room, starting with the room for our baby due in the spring. This program would be a tremendous help to a young family just getting started.
