Dollars to a dying technology

I am surprised that the inability of wind farms to provide reliability to the grid, the hidden costs of manufacture and storage of retired or damaged units, the failure of wind (and solar) to constructively improve energy distribution in those countries (i.e. Germany) that have made 'green energy their policy default would have prevented this unwise project from proceeding this far.

This is a boondoggle. Good money chasing delusions. Do not let this project see approval.
