What is the schedule for program activation this year

It's been almost two years since the IRA was signed into law and the California implementation, while maybe ahead of that of other states, is still not available to potential applicants. Along with many others, I'm sure, we would like to replace our old gas forced air furnace with an efficient heat pump before winter. It's now July, and it seems like a more detailed schedule for implementation should be available than the vague timeline that you have published. Can you at least provide a date for when a schedule will be ready?

Thank you.
